

...want to explore your personality and the world around you?

Career Orientation and Civic Engagement for International Students

Zentrum für Schlüsselqualifikationen (ZfS) again offers two inspiring modules in English: Discover Your Skills.international and Service Learning.international allow students to reflect on their personal strengths and job opportunities as well as to get involved in one of Freiburg's many NGOs. Both modules are geared towards students with refugee experience. All other students enrolled at the University of Freiburg can take remaining places.

Discover Your Skills.international: Strengths-based career orientation

In the strengths-based career orientation, you will reflect on, analyze your individual strengths and relate them to possible career options. The awareness, exploration and application of your individual strengths are deepened in peer advising groups and by getting contact to different fields of work and potential employers.

Service Learning.international: Engage. Connect. Reflect.

In Service Learning.international you volunteer together with peers while supporting a local non-governmental organization (NGO). Combined with (self-)reflection and academic input, this learning experience inspires new practical and theoretical knowledge and supports transcultural sensitivity, multi-perspectivity, cooperative skills and solution finding. English is considered as common language. German language skills are not necessarily required.
